A Resolution to Allow an Increase of Syrian Refugees into the United States

WHEREAS, The living conditions in Syria regarding warfare between the government and the public have made fleeing one of few survival tactics

WHEREAS, The consequences of fleeing include no access to resources; food, shelter, employment etc. and these people need somewhere to settle and develop a means for supporting their families

WHEREAS, Countries that have taken in the majority of these refugees such as Greece may not have the resources or economy to support the rapidly increasing numbers of refugees

WHEREAS, The Chancellor of Germany, Angela Merkel has agreed to shelter 500,000 Syrian Refugees and thus far the US has only taken 10,000

WHEREAS, The US has the ability to shelter many more refugees, especially considering the large amounts Germany and France are sheltering

RESOLVED, The Congress here assembled is able to and should pass legislation to accept these 100,000 refugees.
